MOBILE PHONES AND THE INTERNET MAY BE OVERWHELMED DURING AN EVACUATION

Don't wait. Plan now.

HOW YOU PREPARE WILL AFFECT HOW YOU RECOVER NOT ONLY FOR EARTHQUAKES AND TSUNAMIS BUT FOR ALL SCENARIOS OF DISASTERS, INCLUDING FLOODING, FIRE AND LANDSLIDES.

Find out if family members live, work, play or go to school in a tsunami hazard zone. Get to know the evacuation plan for work and schools.

Familiarize yourself with the tsunami evacuation routes below. Plan on secondary routes as backup.

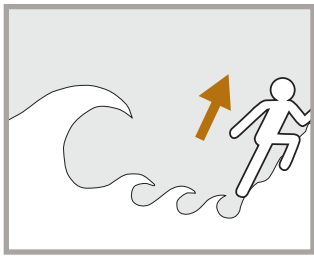

Plan for your pets including your large animals.

Walk your routes and consider what you would do at night or in stormy weather.

Decide when and where to meet family members if you are separated. Have a family/friend to meet you at this designated spot who lives outside the city.

Coordinate for medical, physical or disability needs. Plan for help with neighbors and city services. Include an inventory of transport devices, medications and medical equipment needed. Account for extra evacuation time for this.

What you should do during a tsunami emergency

Move immediately to higher ground, if you feel an earthquake.

Never go down to the beach to watch for a tsunami. Stay off all beaches.

Keep out of the water until an "all clear" is issued.

Leave immediately if you see a noticeable rise or fall of coastal water is first tsunami warning.

Stay tuned to your radio, marine radio, NOAA weather radio or TV during an emergency. Bulletins issued through local emergency management and the National Weather Service can save your life.

Follow all instructions and cooperate with emergency personnel.

Keep an emergency kit in your car and one in your home.
